

Report on:

ALPHA X

by:
Students' names
Registration ID's &

Ayesha Farooq 69922
Zain ul Abideen 69942
Anesh Kumar 63296
Hafsa Sheikh 65039
Kinza Danish Ahmed 70723

(Date)

Submitted as mandatory requirement for the course "Introduction to Entrepreneurship/Managing the Entrepreneurial Venture" in the Program, Bachelor of Business Administration

CONTENTS

Table of Contents

Acknowledgement	4
Executive Summary	5
1.1 Mission Statement	6
1.2 Vision Statement	6
2.0 Current Market Position	6
2.1 Product	7
2.2 Place	7
2.3 Price	8
2.4 Promotion	9
2.5 People	9
2.6 Processes	10
2.7 Physical Evidence	11
3.0 Market overview	11
PESTLE Analysis for ALPHA X Energy Drink	11
4. SWOT Analysis	13
4.1 Strengths	13
4.2 Weaknesses	13
4.4 Threats	14
4.5 Key issues	14
4.6 Key opportunities	14
4.7 Competitor Analysis	15
5.0 Assumptions	16
6.0 Objectives	17
6.1 Sales	17
6.2 Revenue	17
6.3 Customer Base	17
6.4 Ansoff's Matrix	18
7.0 Marketing Strategy	18
7.1 Strategy Introduction	18
7.2 Target market	19
7.3 Positioning statement	19
7.4 Branding strategy	19
7.5 Product/Service strategy	20
7.6 Pricing strategy	20
7.7 Distribution strategy	21
7.8.1 Public relations strategy	21
7.8.2 Advertising strategy	22
7.8.3 Direct marketing strategy	22
7.8.4 Sales promotion strategy	22
7.8.5 Sales strategy	22
7.8.6 Packaging strategy	23
7.8.7 Partnerships	23

8.0 Resource requirements and budgets	23
8.1 Evaluation and control	23
9.0 Business growth and development	24
10.0 Financial forecasts.	24
10.1 Exploratory costs	24
10.2 Production plan	24
10.3 Possible direct costs for the first year	25
10.4 Possible overhead expenses for the first year	25
10.5 Initial funding of the business	25
10.6 Break even analysis	26

Business PlanCompany/ProductSubject/Year

Company Name
Product ALPHA X

Acknowledgement

Executive Summary

Business Overview

ALPHA X is gearing up to market Fusion Energy, its health-based energy drink, which is intended for young, Mid age people from Pakistan. The product provides overall energy with natural ingredients, low sugar content, and added vitamins compared to other energy-drinking products.

Market Opportunity

The growing number of youger people and a middle class with an increasing demand for functional drinks in Pakistan. An increase in consumer awareness about healthcare presents a market opportunity for marketing an energy drink as a healthier choice against regular tea, coffee, or high sugar-content energy drinks.

Target Market

The primary target group consists of young adults aged 18-34, like students, professionals, and fitness buffs.Secondary target includes health-conscious middle-class consumers. They look for easy energy solutions.

Competitive Positioning

Competes with: High-end premium brands: Red Bull and Prime Energy; Low-cost local products: Sting and Oz.Between upper-end and mass-market offerings, providing value-for-money pricing with wellness benefits.

"Brand image emphasizes performance, energy, and health rather than sports and celebrity appeal."

Marketing & Promotion Strategy

Emphasis on digital marketing through Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube. Ambassadors, college campus activities, fitness events, and product tasting for creating awareness. Messages related to health, with a theme of "natural energy" and "long-lasting

Pricing Strategy

Penetration pricing: to encourage early adoption and build market share. Potential premium option for consumers looking for more advanced functional benefits.

Distribution Strategy

Availability at supermarkets, convenience stores, fitness centers, cafes, and health food stores. Online sales using e-commerce platforms to cater to the technologically savvy city population. Sustainability & Compliance Emphasis on eco-friendly packaging. Full compliance with regulations on food & beverages in Pakistan. Overall Outlook Fusion Energy is poised to gain market share by integrating health, affordability, and the allure of modern lifestyle. If successfully implemented, ALPHA X can make Fusion Energy a reputable, distinctive brand for energy drinks in Pakistan. --- You can also shorten this for the slide presentation and/or format this for academic submission if you would like.

1.1 Mission Statement

To empower the youth and active professionals of Pakistan by providing a health-conscious functional beverage that offers a diverse taste of multiple flavors combined with essential nutrients. We are committed to utilizing natural ingredients and vitamins to support peak performance and mental clarity, ensuring our consumers can embrace their inner strength and "reach their peak" without the health compromises associated with traditional drinks.

1.2 Vision Statement

To become the market leader in the soft drink industry by redefining beverage experience through a commitment to health, sustainability, and superior nutritional value. We envision a future where Alpha X is the premier choice for consumers seeking natural vitality and a balanced lifestyle, setting the gold standard for innovation and excellence in the Pakistani market.

2.0 Current Market Position

Alpha X is an emerging entrant in the Pakistani soft drink and functional beverage market, currently at the startup stage. As a new brand, it has no established customer base or market history, but it is strategically positioned to capitalize on the increasing consumer shift toward health-conscious lifestyle choices.

The growing concern among Pakistanis regarding the health risks of traditional high-sugar beverages presents a significant opportunity for a brand that offers both refreshment and nutritional value. The founding team possesses a strong understanding of the macroenvironmental factors affecting the local industry and has identified a clear gap for a product that combines multiple flavors with essential nutrients. With a solid strategic plan for penetration pricing and digital engagement, Alpha X is equipped with the resources necessary to transition from a startup to a leader in the soft drink market.

2.1 Product

Alpha X is a superior, healthy functional beverage. Every variant is designed to present professionals with a "health-first" experience, symbolizing a taste of various flavors laced with the considerable ingestion of nutrients like vitamins and minerals which help balance a lifestyle.

1. Tropical Heat

Flavor Profile: A combination of mango, a touch of habanero kick, and lime zest.

Benefit: Designed for metabolic activation, refreshingly sparking the performance of active students and professionals.

2. Zen Botanika

Flavor Profile: Soothing blend of Blueberry, Lavender, and White Tea. Benefit: Focused on Cognitive Clarity, offering mental focus without the jitters associated with traditional drinks.

3. Global Spice

Flavor Profile: Hydrating base of Coconut Water infused with Pineapple and Cardamom. Beneficial in targeted ways for optimal hydration and recovery, this is ideal for both the fitness enthusiast and the health-conscious consumer.

Competitors: Direct rivals include Red Bull (premium performance leader) and Monster, Prime, Roar High-end "hype" brands like Prime also compete for the youth demographic.

Perception: Traditional energy drinks are often perceived as unhealthy by 40% of consumers. Alpha X counters this by positioning itself as a healthier, nutrient-rich functional beverage rather than a standard stimulant

2.2 Place

The 'Place' strategy involves making Alpha X accessible to its target group of young individuals, students, and health-conscious individuals through physical and online means:

Retail Outlets: The product will be launched in retail stores so that people with tight schedules can easily access it.

Health & Fitness Partnerships: Positioning of the product within gyms and cafes that provide healthy food to combine this association with its wellness image.

Direct-to-Consumer (E-commerce): Leverage online marketplaces for direct sales with the option for home delivery to meet the needs of tech-savvy and busy customers.

Competitors: In the Pakistani beverage market, Alpha X enters a highly competitive environment. Unlike many existing players that operate solely on mass-market caffeine delivery, Alpha X gains a strategic advantage by offering a health-centric, professional alternative that focuses on total body wellness through essential nutrients.

2.3 Price

For Alpha X, “pricing decisions are shaped by the need to balance the brand’s entry into the marketplace with its standard health positioning. Being a startup brand, positioned against both mass-market beverages available at affordable prices and international premium beverages sold at a higher cost, the following policy is pursued:”

Penetration Pricing:

To acquire initial market share, as well as induce trial among consumers hesitant about switching from established brands, Alpha X will employ penetration pricing.

Pricing Structure Now:

- Tiered Pricing Structure: Standard Range: Competitively priced against mainstream offerings such as Sting and Mountain Dew.
- Premium Health Tier: It would be priced higher and incorporate healthier ingredients and lower sugar and better vitamin supplements for targeting upscale individuals.
- Bundle Promotions: Discounts will be offered either when purchased in "Multi-flavor Packs" (e.g., a package of Tropical Heat, Zen Botanical, and Global Spice) or while packing it along with healthy snacks.
- Subscription Discounts: A 10% loyalty discount for loyal customers ordering monthly prescription kits via e-business for subscription.
- Institutional Pricing: A special partnership pricing structure will be arranged with gyms, health clubs, and university cafeterias to offer high visibility within key target areas.

- Early-Bird/Launch Specials: Reduction in price for the early adopters/early buyers in the first stage of the first three months in order to counter the lack of a customer base.

2.4 Promotion

The promotion strategy for Alpha X (Fusion) focuses on building rapid brand awareness from the ground up through high-impact digital channels and localized engagement.

- Digital-First Campaigns: The brand prioritizes platforms like TikTok, Meta, and YouTube to reach its core demographic of tech-savvy young adults (ages 18–34).
- Influencer Partnerships: Marketing efforts leverage fitness bloggers, influencers, and lifestyle creators to build trust and humanize the brand's health-focused message.
- Motivational Branding: The headline "WHEN ENERGY DRAINS, GO ALPHA" is the centerpiece of its messaging, using the lion as a symbol of strength, courage, and confidence.
- Health-Centric Messaging: Campaigns explicitly highlight the use of natural ingredients and essential vitamins to differentiate the product from traditional energy drinks.
- Direct Engagement: The strategy includes event sponsorships at university campuses and fitness centers, alongside introductory discounts to encourage trial among new consumers.

2.5 People

1. Founder / Managing Director

Role:

Overall business strategy and decision-making

Managing finances, partnerships, and growth plans

Coordinating with suppliers, distributors, and investors

2. Operations & Production Manager

Role:

Overseeing energy drink production and quality control

Managing raw materials, packaging, and inventory

Ensuring compliance with food safety and regulatory standards

3. Marketing & Brand Manager

Role:

Developing brand identity and promotional campaigns

Managing social media, influencer marketing, and events

Creating youth-focused and health-oriented brand messaging

4. Sales & Distribution Executive

Role:

Handling retail placement and distributor relationships
Managing institutional sales (gyms, universities, cafeterias)
Expanding market reach across urban areas

5. Quality Control & Compliance Officer

Role:

Monitoring product quality, hygiene, and safety standards
Ensuring compliance with Pakistan food and health regulations
Maintaining documentation and certifications

6. Finance & Accounts Officer

Role:

Managing budgeting, pricing, and cost control
Handling payments, salaries, and financial reporting
Supporting pricing and profitability analysis

7. Digital Media & Customer Engagement Executive

Role:

Managing e-commerce platforms and subscription orders
Handling customer feedback and online inquiries
Supporting loyalty programs and promotions

2.6 Processes

Production Process:

Standard operating procedures (SOPs) for ingredient sourcing, mixing, bottling, packaging, and storage to ensure consistent taste, quality, and safety.

Quality Control Process:

Regular quality checks before and after production to ensure compliance with Pakistan food safety and health regulations.

Order & Distribution Process:

Defined procedures for receiving orders from retailers, gyms, and online platforms, followed by timely dispatch and delivery.

Customer Feedback & Complaint Handling:

A simple system for recording customer complaints and feedback through social media, email, and helpline, with prompt resolution.

Sales & Institutional Partnership Process:

Clear steps for onboarding gyms, universities, and cafeterias, including pricing, contracts, and supply schedules.

Digital & Subscription Order Process:

Monthly subscription management, payment confirmation, packing, and delivery procedures for loyal customers.

2.7 Physical Evidence

Staff Appearance:

Staff will wear branded ALPHA X shirts or jackets, presenting a professional and unified team image.

Product Packaging:

Sleek, modern cans with bold ALPHA X branding, clear nutritional information, and vibrant colors reflecting energy and power.

Delivery & Distribution Presence:

Delivery boxes and cartons featuring the ALPHA X logo and tagline to increase brand visibility.

Retail & Institutional Displays:

Branded display racks and refrigerators at gyms, universities, and retail stores.

Digital Presence:

A professional website and active social media pages showcasing the brand's energy, health benefits, and youth appeal.

3.0 Market overview

The success of ALPHA X Energy Drink is influenced by several external factors beyond the company's control. Understanding these factors is essential before making marketing decisions, as changes in the political, economic, social, technological, legal, and environmental environment can create both opportunities and threats over the next 6–12 months and beyond.

The Pakistani energy drink market is growing, particularly among young adults, students, professionals, and fitness enthusiasts. However, increasing health awareness, inflation, and regulatory scrutiny require careful market planning and positioning.

PESTLE Analysis for ALPHA X Energy Drink

Political Factors

- Government policies and import duties on raw materials may affect production costs.
- Political stability impacts business confidence, distribution, and retail operations.
- Government attention on food and beverage health standards may increase regulatory oversight.

Impact:

ALPHA X must maintain compliance and plan pricing strategies carefully.

Economic Factors

- Rising inflation in Pakistan affects consumer purchasing power and cost of ingredients.
- A growing urban middle class still spends on lifestyle and functional beverages.
- Price sensitivity remains high, making competitive pricing crucial.

Impact:

Tiered pricing and bundle offers provide an opportunity to attract both mass and premium consumers.

Sociocultural Factors

- Growing health consciousness among youth, with concerns about sugar and artificial ingredients.
- Strong tea and coffee culture creates competition but also an opportunity to position ALPHA X as a modern, healthier energy alternative.
- Youth culture values performance, confidence, and leadership, aligning with the ALPHA brand image.

Impact:

Health-focused messaging and youth-centric branding offer strong growth potential.

Technological Factors

- High smartphone and social media usage enables digital marketing and influencer campaigns.
- Growth of e-commerce allows online sales and subscription models.
- Advancements in beverage processing improve product quality and shelf life.

Impact:

Digital platforms will be a key marketing and sales channel for ALPHA X.

Legal Factors

- Compliance with Pakistan food safety authorities regarding ingredients, labelling, and health claims is mandatory.
- Restrictions on false or exaggerated health claims require transparent marketing.

Impact:

Clear labelling and regulatory compliance will protect brand credibility.

Environmental Factors

- Rising awareness about sustainable packaging and environmental responsibility.
- Pressure to reduce plastic waste and adopt recyclable materials.

Impact:

Eco-friendly packaging can enhance brand reputation and attract socially conscious consumers.

4. SWOT Analysis

A SWOT analysis helps ALPHA X understand its internal strengths and weaknesses, as well as external opportunities and threats in Pakistan's competitive energy drink market. The analysis provides direction for marketing strategies and supports informed decision-making during the startup and growth phases.

4.1 Strengths

ALPHA X has several key strengths that support its market entry and growth:

- Strong youth-focused and leadership-based brand positioning
- Health-oriented formulation with lower sugar and added vitamins
- Tiered pricing strategy appealing to both mass and premium segments
- Modern, attractive branding and packaging
- Ability to use digital marketing, influencer campaigns, and e-commerce
- Flexible startup structure allowing quick response to market trends
- Partnerships potential with gyms, universities, and fitness centres

4.2 Weaknesses

As a new business, ALPHA X faces several internal limitations:

- No established brand recognition in the market
- Limited financial resources compared to multinational competitors
- No existing loyal customer base during early stages
- Dependence on third-party suppliers and distributors
- Limited production scale in the initial phase
- High marketing effort required to educate consumers about health benefits

4.3 Opportunities

The Pakistani market offers strong growth opportunities for ALPHA X:

- Growing demand for energy drinks among youth and professionals
- Rising health consciousness creating demand for better alternatives
- Increasing use of social media and online shopping platforms
- Opportunity to partner with gyms, health clubs, universities, and cafes
- Lack of many locally positioned health-focused energy drink brands
- Potential for product line extensions (new Flavors, sugar-free variants)
- Expansion into other cities and regions after successful launch

4.4 Threats

ALPHA X must be aware of the following external threats:

- Strong competition from established brands like Red Bull, Sting, and Mountain Dew
- Price sensitivity of Pakistani consumers due to inflation
- Possible government regulations on energy drinks and health claims
- Fluctuating costs of raw materials and packaging
- Negative perception of energy drinks as unhealthy among some consumers
- Risk of imitation by local competitors offering cheaper alternatives

4.5 Key issues

From the SWOT analysis, the key issues for ALPHA X Energy Drink are:

- Lack of brand awareness as a new entrant in a highly competitive market
- Limited financial resources compared to established multinational competitors
- Price sensitivity of consumers, especially during periods of inflation
- Need to build consumer trust regarding health and safety of energy drinks
- Dependence on effective distribution and retail partnerships
- Requirement for strong digital marketing and influencer engagement to reach youth

4.6 Key opportunities

From the SWOT analysis, the key opportunities for ALPHA X Energy Drink include:

- Growing demand for energy drinks among youth, students, and professionals in Pakistan
- Rising health awareness, creating demand for lower-sugar and functional energy drinks
- Use of social media, influencers, and digital marketing to build brand awareness quickly

- Partnerships with gyms, universities, cafes, and fitness centres for visibility and trial
- Online sales and subscription models to encourage repeat purchases and customer loyalty
- Opportunity to expand product range with new Flavors and health-focused variants

4.7 Competitor Analysis

ALPHA X Energy Drink operates in a highly competitive energy drink market dominated by both international and local brands. The main competitors include Red Bull, Sting (PepsiCo), and Prime Energy, along with local brands such as Oz by Shahid Afridi.

Red Bull

Strengths

- Globally established and premium brand
- Strong brand recognition and consumer trust
- Extensive distribution network in Pakistan
- Heavy investment in sponsorships and events

Weaknesses

- High price compared to local and mass-market brands
- Limited focus on affordability for students

Opportunities

- Expansion into more health-oriented variants
- Increased digital and influencer marketing

Threats

- Rising health concerns regarding energy drinks
 - Growing competition from lower-priced local brands
-

Sting (PepsiCo)

Strengths

- Affordable pricing and mass-market appeal
- Strong distribution through PepsiCo network
- High brand visibility in retail outlets

Weaknesses

- Perceived as less healthy due to high sugar content
- Limited premium or health-focused positioning

Opportunities

- Launch of reduced-sugar or functional variants
- Strong youth engagement through promotions

Threats

- Shift in consumer preferences toward healthier options
 - Increased regulatory scrutiny
-

Prime Energy

Strengths

- Strong influencer-driven brand appeal
- Premium image and international recognition
- High demand among young consumers

Weaknesses

- Very high price for Pakistani market
- Limited availability

Opportunities

- Expansion among high-income youth segments

Threats

- Price sensitivity of local consumers
 - Competition from affordable alternatives
-

Local Brands (e.g., Oz by Shahid Afridi)

Strengths

- Affordable pricing
- Strong local celebrity association
- Familiarity with local tastes

Weaknesses

- Limited health positioning
- Lower brand prestige compared to international brands

Opportunities

- Expansion through sports partnerships

Threats

- Entry of new health-focused brands like ALPHA X

5.0 Assumptions

This marketing plan for ALPHA X Energy Drink is based on several key assumptions. It is assumed that demand for energy drinks among youth, students, and young professionals in Pakistan will continue to grow over the coming months. The plan also assumes that no major government restrictions or bans on energy drinks will be introduced in the short term and that raw material and packaging costs will remain relatively stable. It is expected that competitors will not engage in aggressive price reductions immediately after ALPHA X enters the market. Additionally, the plan assumes that health awareness among consumers will continue to increase, creating demand for lower-sugar and functional energy drinks. The effectiveness of digital marketing and social media platforms in reaching the target audience is also assumed to remain strong. Finally, it is assumed that partnerships with retailers, gyms, universities, and fitness centers will be successfully established as planned.

6.0 Objectives

The marketing objectives of ALPHA X Energy Drink are to build strong brand awareness, encourage product trial, and achieve sustainable growth in the Pakistani market. Within the first 6 to 12 months, ALPHA X aims to create awareness among young consumers aged 18–34, secure placement in key retail outlets, gyms, and universities, and motivate first-time purchases through promotions and sampling. The brand also aims to achieve repeat purchases through loyalty and subscription programs, while establishing a strong digital presence via social media and online platforms. These objectives are SMART, realistic, and aligned with the overall strategy of positioning ALPHA X as a youth-focused, health-oriented energy drink.

6.1 Sales

Sell approximately 24,000 cans across retail stores, gyms, universities, and online platforms

- Secure bulk purchase agreements with at least 30 gyms, fitness centers, and university cafeterias.
- Achieve consistent monthly sales growth through subscription orders and repeat customers.

6.2 Revenue

Over the next 12 months, ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) will:

- Generate approximately PKR 8.4 million in sales revenue through retail outlets, gyms, university cafeterias, and online platforms
- Maintain sufficient working capital by the end of the first year to support daily operations, marketing activities, and future growth of the business.

6.3 Customer Base

Over the next 12 months, ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) will:

- Serve a bunch of individual customers through retail outlets, gyms, universities, and online platforms.

- Establish long-term supply relationships with gyms, fitness centers, and university cafeterias as key institutional customers

6.4 Ansoff's Matrix

Ansoff's Matrix applies to ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) as a product-based business:

- Market Penetration: Selling existing Fusion Energy drinks in the Pakistani market through increased promotion and distribution (safest option).
- Market Development: Introducing the same product into new cities and regions within Pakistan.
- Product Development: Launching new flavors or healthier variants for existing customers.
- Diversification: Introducing new beverage products in new markets in the long term (most risky option).

7.0 Marketing Strategy

The marketing strategy of ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) focuses on achieving its marketing objectives by targeting health-conscious youth and young professionals in Pakistan. The strategy emphasizes penetration pricing, strong digital marketing, influencer partnerships, and wide availability through retail outlets, gyms, universities, and online platforms. By positioning Fusion Energy as a health-oriented and affordable energy drink, ALPHA X aims to build brand awareness, encourage trial purchases, and develop long-term customer loyalty.

7.1 Strategy Introduction

Market analysis and SWOT findings indicate a growing demand for health-oriented energy drinks among young adults and professionals in Pakistan, along with increasing concern about the negative health effects of traditional high-sugar beverages. At the same time, the market is highly competitive and price-sensitive, with strong multinational and local brands already established.

Based on these factors, ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) will compete by positioning itself as a health-focused and value-for-money energy drink. The marketing strategy combines penetration pricing, digital-first promotion, influencer marketing, and partnerships with gyms, universities, and retail outlets. This approach is designed to build brand awareness, encourage product trial, and gradually establish customer trust and loyalty in the target market.

7.2 Target market

The target market for ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) includes:

- Young adults aged 18–34, including university students and early-career professionals seeking quick and convenient energy solutions
- Health-conscious consumers who prefer lower-sugar and functional beverages over traditional energy drinks
- Fitness enthusiasts who require sustained energy for workouts, training, and active lifestyles
- Urban middle-class consumers with moderate disposable income and regular exposure to digital media

This segment is large enough to generate sustainable sales, shows dissatisfaction with unhealthy energy drinks, and can be effectively reached through digital marketing, influencers, gyms, and universities, making it suitable for a small startup like ALPHA X.

7.3 Positioning statement

ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) – Natural energy without compromise

ALPHA X is a health-focused energy drink designed for young adults and professionals who need sustained energy without excessive sugar or harmful ingredients. By combining natural flavors, essential vitamins, and affordable pricing, ALPHA X differentiates itself from traditional energy drinks that focus mainly on stimulation. The brand is positioned as a modern, reliable, and healthier alternative that supports active and balanced lifestyles.

7.4 Branding strategy

ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) will gradually build brand awareness and recognition as part of its overall marketing strategy during the initial years of operation. The branding strategy focuses on presenting a strong, healthy, and energetic image that appeals to young adults and professionals.

All branding elements, including product packaging, social media content, promotional materials, staff uniforms, and digital platforms, will follow a consistent brand identity using the ALPHA X logo, colors, and tagline. The brand will position itself as trustworthy, modern, and health-oriented, helping to create credibility and long-term customer loyalty.

7.5 Product/Service strategy

ALPHA X's product strategy is built on delivering a health-conscious, functionally beneficial energy drink that meets the needs of young adults, professionals, and fitness enthusiasts in Pakistan.

Features & Benefits:

Natural Ingredients: Real fruit extracts, no artificial flavors or colors

Added Nutrients: Vitamins B6, B12, Vitamin C, and electrolytes

Low Sugar Content: 30–40% less sugar than mainstream competitors

Function-Specific Formulas:

Tropical Heat – for physical energy & metabolism

Zen Botanika – for mental clarity & stress relief

Global Spice – for hydration & recovery

Convenience: Portable 250ml cans, suitable for on-the-go lifestyles

Unique Selling Point (USP):

ALPHA X is Pakistan's first functional energy drink that blends natural ingredients with scientifically backed benefits—delivering clean, sustained energy without the sugar crash, artificial stimulants, or unhealthy aftereffects of traditional energy drinks. Example Canterbury Renovations offers personalized service whereby the design is part of the project and can be done in the client's home with discussions. This personalized service is our USP.

Currently, they are offering bathroom renovations but they plan on extending into kitchen renovations and extensions as well.

7.6 Pricing strategy

ALPHA X adopts a premium pricing strategy, setting all product variants at a fixed price of PKR 350 per can. This price point reflects the brand's commitment to high-quality, natural ingredients, added functional benefits, and superior health value. By positioning itself above mass-market competitors like Sting and Mountain Dew, and alongside premium international brands such as Red Bull and Prime, ALPHA X targets health-conscious young professionals and fitness enthusiasts who are willing to invest in a beverage that supports wellness and performance. The pricing is justified by higher production costs, enhanced product value, and the brand's premium image. To encourage initial adoption, launch-period bundle offers and institutional bulk discounts will be introduced, alongside a loyalty subscription program for recurring online purchases, ensuring that the premium price is perceived as a worthwhile investment in a healthier, more energized lifestyle.

7.7 Distribution strategy

ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) will ensure that its products are easily available to customers when and where they are needed. Distribution will be carried out through a combination of retail outlets, gyms, fitness centers, university cafeterias, and online platforms.

The company will use local distributors and direct institutional supply to maintain suitable stock levels and wide market coverage. Online sales and subscription services will provide home delivery and customer support, ensuring convenience and consistent product availability.

7.8 Promotional strategy

The promotional strategy of ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) focuses on creating brand awareness, encouraging product trial, and building customer loyalty. Promotion will primarily use digital marketing platforms such as Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube to effectively reach young adults and professionals.

Additional promotional activities include influencer marketing, campus and gym activations, product sampling, introductory discounts, and branded displays at retail and institutional locations. Health-focused messaging and consistent branding will be used to differentiate ALPHA X from traditional energy drinks and communicate its functional benefits.

7.8.1 Public relations strategy

The public relations strategy of ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) aims to build a positive and trustworthy brand image in the market. This will be achieved by promoting the brand as a health-focused and responsible energy drink.

Public relations activities will include participation in university events, fitness activities, and health-related campaigns, as well as the use of social media to share informative content about product benefits and healthy lifestyles. Consistent communication and ethical marketing practices will help strengthen brand credibility and public trust.

7.8.2 Advertising strategy

The advertising strategy of ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) focuses on creating awareness and interest among the target market of young adults and professionals. Advertising efforts will mainly use digital platforms, including social media advertisements on Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube.

Advertising messages will emphasize health benefits, natural ingredients, and long-lasting energy to differentiate ALPHA X from traditional energy drinks. Advertising frequency and channels will be reviewed regularly to ensure cost-effectiveness and maximum reach.

7.8.3 Direct marketing strategy

ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) will use direct marketing to communicate directly with customers and encourage repeat purchases. This will be achieved through email marketing, social media messages, and online subscription offers.

Customer responses, such as inquiries, online orders, and subscription sign-ups, will be monitored to evaluate the effectiveness of direct marketing activities. Direct marketing will help build long-term relationships and customer loyalty.

7.8.4 Sales promotion strategy

ALPHA X (Fusion Energy) will use sales promotion techniques to encourage product trial and increase short-term sales. These promotions will include introductory discounts, bundle offers, free sampling at gyms and universities, and limited-time promotional pricing.

Sales promotions will be used mainly during the launch phase and special campaigns to attract new customers, increase purchase volume, and stimulate repeat buying behavior.

7.8.5 Sales strategy

ALPHA X will use a mixed sales approach combining indirect and limited personal selling. During the initial phase, sales will be managed through distributors supplying retail outlets, gyms, and university cafeterias. Personal selling will be focused on institutional customers such as gyms and universities to secure bulk and repeat orders. Online sales through e-commerce platforms will support direct customer interaction and repeat purchases. This strategy minimizes costs while ensuring market coverage.

7.8.6 Packaging strategy

Packaging for ALPHA X will be functional, attractive, and brand-consistent. The product will be offered in 250ml aluminum cans to ensure portability and freshness. Packaging will include clear nutritional information, ingredient details, and health-related claims in compliance with Pakistan food regulations. Eco-friendly and recyclable materials will be used to support the brand's sustainability positioning.

7.8.7 Partnerships

ALPHA X will form strategic partnerships with gyms, fitness centers, universities, cafés, and health stores. These partnerships will provide product visibility, trial opportunities, and institutional sales. Influencer partnerships with fitness and lifestyle creators will support brand awareness. All partnerships will be aligned with the brand's health-focused positioning.

8.0 Resource requirements and budgets

ALPHA X requires resources for production, marketing, distribution, and administration during its first year. Major costs include raw materials, packaging, promotional activities, digital advertising, logistics, and regulatory compliance. The marketing budget will primarily focus on digital platforms, influencer campaigns, and sampling activities. Resource allocation will be reviewed quarterly to ensure cost efficiency.

8.1 Evaluation and control

The marketing and business plan of ALPHA X will be regularly monitored and evaluated to ensure objectives are being achieved. Sales performance, customer response, and marketing effectiveness will be reviewed on a monthly basis during the initial phase. Key performance indicators such as sales volume, market coverage, customer feedback, and digital engagement will be used to measure success.

Corrective actions will be taken if results deviate from planned objectives. The plan will be formally reviewed at the end of the first year to support future planning and improvement.

9.0 Business growth and development

ALPHA X aims to grow through market expansion, product development, and brand strengthening. In the short term, the focus will be on increasing market penetration in major urban areas. In the medium term, the company plans to introduce new flavors and healthier variants. Long-term growth includes expansion into additional cities and potential diversification into other functional beverages.

10.0 Financial forecasts.

10.1 Exploratory costs

CATEGORY	ESTIMATED COST
Market research & consumer surveys	120,000
Business planning & documentation	80,000
Legal & regulatory consultation	100,000
Product sampling & testing	90,000
Branding & initial design work	110,000
Communication & administrative expenses	50,000
Travel & meetings	50,000
Total Exploratory Costs	600,000

10.2 Production plan

A. Single Can production

Can Size	Units Planned	Manufacturing cost (per unit)	Selling price (per unit)	Profit Margain
250ML	18,000	220	350	approx. 37%

B. Bundle Pack Production (3 Can Combo)

Bundle Type	Bundles Planned	Units Covered	Manufacturing Cost (per bundle)	Selling price (per bundle)	Profit Margin
3- can Combo Pack	2000	6000	660	990	Approx. 33%

10.3 Possible direct costs for the first year

Cost Item	Estimated Annual Cost (PKR)
Raw materials & ingredients	1,600,000
Packaging (cans, labels, cartons)	700,000
Production labor	400,000
Quality control & testing	150,000
Storage & warehousing	200,000
Distribution & logistics	300,000
Utilities & factory overheads	150,000
Total Operating Costs	3,500,000 PKR

10.4 Possible overhead expenses for the first year

Expense Category	Amount (PKR)
Marketing & Promotion	850,000
Rent	650,000
Utilities & Administration	220,000
Logistics & Warehousing	580,000
Insurance	60,000
Subscriptions & CRM	180,000
Travel & Outreach	160,000
Legal, Tax & Audit	100,000
Total Overhead Expenses	2,800,000

10.5 Initial funding of the business

The owners have $20,000 of their own money to invest in the business, supplemented by a $20,000 long term interest free loan from Frank's parents. The closing balance in the projected cash flow (Attachment 2) shows that, in addition to this, some $41,000 will be required over the first year of the business.

The owners had preliminary discussions with their bank manager and, subject to the provision of a properly documented business plan and the provision of a mortgage over their home, they will be provided with an overdraft of $45,000.

An overdraft was agreed to be the most suitable arrangement for the first year as financial requirements will vary substantially from month to month and there will be no profits with which to repay capital. After the first year, trading levels will be more predictable and finance arrangements will be reviewed.

10.6 Break even analysis

The average mark up on direct/renovation costs is 25%. For example, a $10,000 job will have a direct cost of $8000. Therefore the gross profit will be $2000, (i.e. 20% of the value of the job).

The projected overheads for the business in the first year will be $62,650. To break even the business would have to achieve sales of which 80% pays for the direct/renovation costs and 20% pays for the overheads of $62,650.

If $\text{sales} \times 20\% = $62,650$ then the sales required to reach break even would be $62,650, multiplied by five, (i.e. $313,250).

Therefore, the break even point of sales in the first year will be $313,250. This will not be achieved in the first year. However, in the second year the profit margin of 18% of the projected sales of $450,000 (i.e. $81,000 gross profit) will cover the overheads of about $73,150 and produce a net profit of $8350.

11.0 Costing

Definition

Show how you have established the price of your products and services.

Example

Canterbury Renovations will be involved in the following activities:

- purchase and supply of equipment
- purchase and conversion of raw or partially finished materials
- provision of manufacturing and onsite labour
- provision of subcontract work

The following assumptions are made when preparing quotations:

Direct costs $368,500

Overhead expenses $73,150

Business profit $8350

Total $81,500

+81,500

Annual turnover in the second year $450,000

Therefore, to cover profit overheads, the average mark up on all direct costs, equipment, materials, labor and subcontractors' costs will be 25%.

Accordingly, quotations will be prepared on the following basis for a typical job of, for example, $10,000:

Item	Direct Cost $	Mark up %	Mark up $
------	----------------	-----------	------------

Equipment	2,500	15	375
-----------	-------	----	-----

Material	1500	35	525
----------	------	----	-----

Labor	2300	30	690
-------	------	----	-----

Subcontractors	1700	25	425
----------------	------	----	-----

Total $8000 (avg.) 25% (approx.) $2000

Hourly labor rates will be calculated as follows:

Costs $

Hourly rate (according to award or workplace agreement)

$18.00

Add on costs (e.g. Workcover 5%) $0.90

Medical costs $1.00

Superannuation 6% $1.08

Payroll tax (N/A)

Sick pay allowance $2.00

Annual leave allowance ($18x52/48)-$18 $1.50

Tools allowance $1.00

Total $25.48

Allowance for non-productive time, e.g industrial action, maintenance, travelling, tool maintenance, training, injuries etc,

$2.55

23

e.g. 10%

Total $28.03

Therefore, the hourly rate for estimating work will be charged at $28.00 + 25% mark up

=

$36.50 per hour.

12.0 Records

Definition

Provide details of the management information systems that will keep your business running.

Outline the types of records you will keep whilst operating the business.

Example

Canterbury Renovations will maintain sufficient business records to demonstrate the financial position of the business on a monthly basis. Financial records will compare profitability with projected profit/loss and cash flow statements. Records will also be kept for each job to show its progress and cost in labor, materials and subcontractors. These will be regularly compared with estimates for that job.

The following specific records will be kept:

- cash book
- receipt book
- invoices, received and sent
- bank deposits and statements
- petty cash expenditure
- wage, Work Cover, superannuation and long service leave records
- employee details
- capital assets register
- materials purchased and allocated to each job or temporarily as floating stock
- contact details of all enquirers, existing clients, suppliers and subcontractors
- individual job records showing progress
- job estimates

13.0 Supporting documents

Definition

Including certain documents will support the statements you have made throughout your plan. You should include figures for projected cash flows and profit and loss, as well as a statement of financial position. If applicable, you should also attach copies of your references, qualifications, licenses, permits, partnership agreement, research data, current promotional literature and locality map.

Example

Attached to the business plan are the following documents:

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATIONS

References

(On separate page)

Appendix

(On separate page)

FORMATTING & WRITING INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Report must be typed in Times New Roman
2. Font size is 12 for the text, 16 for main headings, 14 for Sub-headings, and 12 for Side-headings
3. Line spacing = 2.0
4. Keep the text left-aligned
5. Apart from Vision/Mission statements, please do not quote verbatim from websites or any other source; apply paraphrasing (use your own words/expression).